Shades of the gold rush of '49! There is a "silver rush" of 1980 at the Feder-Huber Furniture Store. Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues.

Silver coins dated 1964 and earlier—dollars, half-dollars, quarters and dimes—can be exchanged at the store for anything and (Continued on Page 4)

Braid rage—or how to be a 10

Braid rage. In the midst of publicity about the movie "10" and its star, Bo Derek, many women are having their hair braided in the same fashion.

The most recent braid experiment is Jacquie Pahuksi of Granite City. After "considerable prodding" from Jon Bell, co-owner of the Lion's Mane, 3900 Nantooki Road, Jacquie conceded, "I don't mind the experiment. I believe in Jon's work and I felt it was time for a change."

They are shown in the pictures at the left.

Bell began the monumental task at 9 a.m. "With preparation, braiding, beading and an occasional break for Jacquie and me, I would guess I could be done by 10 p.m.," he commented at 3 that afternoon.

"When the job is done, there will be over 200 braids in Jacquie's hair. This particular style can last between two and four weeks, depending on the individual."

When asked why he decided to take on this task, Bell smiled with (Continued on Page 8)

GC citizens to inspect schools

The Citizens Advisory Committee has begun its task of helping the Granite City School Board determine the major priority items of maintenance and repair that face the school district but are not covered in the normal operating budget.

In order to obtain first-hand information, the committee, with the help of the school administration, has arranged a series of visitations on Saturday mornings. Interested citizens may be present at the schools to accompany the CAC on the tours to help determine the building needs.

Checklists of the general areas of concern will be filled out. Citizens will use the lists to develop their own notes, observations, views or comments, helping formulate the final decision on a referendum to issue bonds.

A suggestion box will be provided at each school.

Those unable to visit the schools on the scheduled days may—during the week prior to the scheduled visit—contact the school principal and arrange to see the school.

"The Citizens Advisory Committee is hopeful that wide interest and response will develop, and that the citizens of School District 9 will make themselves informed about the future course that should be taken to insure the continued care and maintenance of the educational facilities we now have serving the community," CAC Chairman Edwin F. Reiske has commented.

The schedules follow:

Saturday, Feb. 16: Frohardt School, 8 to 8:45 a.m.; Nameoki School, 8:45 to 9:30; Maryville School, 9:30 to 10:15; Mitchell School, 10:15 to 11:15; and North High, 11:15 to 12:45.

Feb. 23: Emerson School, 8 to 8:45; Prather Junior High, 8:45 to 9:15; Logan School, 9:15 to 10; and Johnson School, 10 to 11:15.

March 1: South High, 8 to 9:15 a.m.; Coolidge Junior High, 9:15 to 10:15; Niedringhaus School, 10:15 to 11:15; and Webster School, 11:15 to 12 noon.

Pontoon village expansion plan

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Rapid growth of the boundaries of Pontoon Beach is the aim of the first resolution passed by the village board in 1980.

Resolution 80-1, approved by the village board of trustees Tuesday night, provides funds to hire a professional planner to assist in expanding the village territory.

A meeting has been called for 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 23, at the village hall, for all village residents who would like to serve on an annexation committee.

The committee is expected to be comprised of about 25 persons, including all village board members, some interested members of the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department and other village residents, it was explained.

Village Board President Paul Bennett said the village is thinking about expanding south to Sand Prairie Lane, west to the Alton & Southern Railroad tracks and north to Interstate 270.

"We will annex these areas one piece at a time, if the owners are willing, until an overall annexation program is prepared. Then we will probably have a referendum for annexation," Bennett predicted.

With expansion in mind, the village hired M. C. Jett of Chesterfield, Mo., a municipal planner, to begin a feasibility study to determine if the village would benefit from expanding its boundaries.

Jett is to supervise and coordinate growth efforts, including the work of a surveyor and of legal counsel, if they become necessary. He also is to work with the fire department and other governmental units to assure that they will be integrated into the annexations.

Jett's work also will include preparing documents to assure that taxes and income from annexations are secured for the village, and he is to coordinate zoning for the areas to be annexed.

He also is to suggest necessary revisions to the village municipal code to protect liabilities of the village in newly-annexed territories and prepare new boundary maps for the village board after annexations are completed.

Jett is to be paid $30 per hour for his work and the board agreed to pay him $1,800 immediately for the first 60 hours he is to devote to the program.

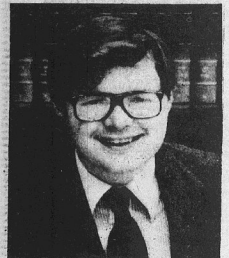

It was agreed that the village board will have to approve the hiring of a surveyor or other personnel needed by Jett.

Asked if the drive to annex property was in response to recent announcements by Fairmont City that it is considering annexing north along Route 111 to State Aid 35, Bennett commented, "Yes, but we have been planning on this long before that."

"We are just trying to get something together. But we don't want to get more than we can handle or would be a burden on the residents of the village."

"One of our first jobs will be to figure out what revenue the expansion will generate," Bennett said. He also indicated he is concerned that people in the proposed expansion area may (Continued on Page 4)

Haine seeks change in state's attorney procedures

Youthful appearing but widely experienced in government service, William R. "Bill" Haine is running for the Democratic state's attorney nomination March 18 against the incumbent, Nicholas Byron of Edwardsville, and Richard Allen of Granite City.

Haine, 1029 Diamond St., Alton, believes "the people in Madison County need strong, consistent, trustworthy leadership."

"Criminals are the oppressors in our society," he adds. "They terrorize the elderly, and make women afraid to leave their homes at night."

"Things are so bad that not even our homes are havens from attack," he contends.

Haine says victims of crime should and will be his clients in the state's attorney's office if he is elected.

"Among my first changes will be the institution of a victims' assistance program."

"Whether it's a merchant who's received a bad check and needs help, a child sexually abused or a woman raped, it's time for the criminals and not the victims to pick up the tab for crime."

"The moral climate of our county is determined in large part by the state's attorney's office," Haine asserts. "I'm running for this office because I feel it is my moral obligation to offer the people my experience and my attitude toward public service. This is the most important office in Madison County."

Haine is serving on the Madison County Board and practicing law in the Alton-Wood River area. He is a graduate of St. Louis University and the St. Louis University School of Law, where he was an editor and contributor to the St. Louis University Law Journal.

In 1976, Haine was appointed as an assistant public defender of Madison County.

He served in that capacity, full time, until 1978, when he resigned due to his election to a four-year term on the County Board from District 8.

As a member of the County Board, Haine serves on the Judiciary Committee and the Environmental Control Committee.

A Vietnam war veteran, he served from February 1968 to March 1969 with the First Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam, where he was awarded the Bronze Star.

He has been especially active in the (Continued on Page 8)

Jobs at bridge—male or female?

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

NOW (National Organization for Women) is showing an interest in municipal hiring practices, as evidenced at Monday night's Venice City Council meeting.

A question was raised over the hiring of a McKinley Bridge male part-time employee over a female applicant. Both were seeking a full-time toll booth position.

Mrs. Norma Mendoza, who has been active in the Equal Rights Amendment ratification campaign, said she was attending the council meeting as a representative of NOW.

Asked if any action was planned by NOW, Mrs. Mendoza replied, "We are just here finding out about this. We do intend to follow the situation."

Two other women were also present at the council meeting.

Mrs. Virginia Hargis, 710 Main St., Venice, is alleging that Aldermen Charles Haynes, George Lewis and Hank A. Svezla had a meeting Jan. 14 with Tom Fields, McKinley Bridge manager, and told her she had been hired to fill a toll collector position, while later deciding on someone else.

She said she has a taped telephone conversation in which Alderman Haynes said to her he had told the committee "to give her a shot at it."

Mrs. Hargis said Alderman Haynes did not know she was taping their phone conversation, nor did the other aldermen know she had a concealed tape recorder in her purse when they told her, before an earlier January council meeting, that she would be "considered" for the job, according to the aldermen.

While being interviewed following this week's council meeting, and asked why she used a hidden tape recorder, she replied, "Isn't it obvious why? I felt I should tape all meetings. I'm taping us now."

At that point she took from her purse a small cassette tape recorder and several cassette tapes.

Mrs. Hargis said a late mayor of Venice had said he would never hire a woman toll collector. She displayed a 1974 letter from Congressman Melvin Price, written in response to her asking him to investigate why she was not hired by the city.

"I feel my civil rights have been infringed upon," she stated.

Asked if she plans legal action, she said, "I definitely don't plan on stopping here."

Ruling on bond fee will precede election—Byron

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record
The Madison County
state's attorney's office will issue "a definitive position well before the March primary" on whether the

Callis & Hartman law firm of Granite City should have received a fee for preparing the city's home mortgage bond issue. State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron told the Press-Record in an interview Monday.

Madison County Board Member Daniel Partney of Granite City, three Granite City Council members and the city's street superintendent alleged at a news conference Jan. 10 that since City Attorney Lance Callis was on retainer as city attorney, he should not have received an additional fee for preparing the low-interest mortgage bond

issue, which they construed
as city work.
Callis says there is no
conflict of interest and there is ample precedent in the city and other governmental bodies over many years

where attorneys preparing bond issues received compensation for their work.
Callis also says the $15,000
his firm received for the work was not excessive, considering the legal

research and other work done by various attorneys in his law firm, travel costs to Chicago and Washington and other expenses.

Byron said Partney and Alderman Charles Douglas left at his office a stack of material about eight to 10 inches tall to study; three assistant state's attorneys are researching the many points made in the documents, including Don Smith, chief of the civil division.

Smith said he has finished researching about half of the materials submitted by Partney, Douglas "and individuals in Granite City
other than Partney and Douglas", this has required eight to 10 hours of research on his part.

"There are a lot of questions with no answers
yet which need additional research," Smith told the Press-Record.

Byron said assistants Bob Trone and Mike Thompson
also are involved in the research and when the three have completed their work, he intends to meet with them, and with Partney, before formulating the office's official position on the matter.

"We do not feel this will,
or even should, have any effect on this election (Byron is seeking the Democratic nomination March 18 as part of his campaign for re-election). I feel we are strong in the Granite City area and a lot of voters there are with us."

"However, we will come up with our opinion well before the primary (election)," Byron pledged.

Smith said that has been his specific instruction from Byron since he first received the material for study—that an opinion was to be issued before the election.

The state's attorney emphasized that the issue is being handled, at this time, as a civil matter rather than
as a criminal study.

Byron said he, personally, has been devoting most of his time to a report issued by a state investigative group on certificates of assessment error issued in past years by the county.

Although copies of the report have not been made public, it does contain some allegations of wrongdoing, sources have indicated.

Byron commented, "It is a thick report on a complex area. I just got it in January and it is complicated and so lengthy. The subject of assessments is one of the most complicated areas in state law and the entire area should be reconsidered by
the state."

"Up to now, I have handled this report personally. I think I am going to get some help on it from my staff. The subject of assessments is one of the most complicated areas in state law and the entire area
should be reconsidered by
the state."

He did not predict when research might lead to an opinion on the assessment certificate issue or when the findings of the group's investigation may be made public.

Nameoki residents share ideas on shared revenue

By RICK PEARSON
Residents of Nameoki Township met with township officials Monday night to make recommendations on spending, almost $90,000 in federal revenue sharing money.

Harold Davis, township supervisor, said the township will have an approximate carry-over of $30,000 for the upcoming year, because of delays of projects for which current revenue sharing funds were earmarked.

Davis said the township expects to receive an additional $60,000 in revenue sharing for the upcoming fiscal year. But, if federal officials move to disband revenue sharing, or alter the program's form, the township may receive only $45,000 in funds, he added.

Among items recommended for shared revenue is $8,000 for the Nameoki

Township Volunteer Police Department. Davis said no decision can be made to fund the police department until an evaluation of the total township budget can be made.

Davis recommended that some money be used for an economic and demographic study of State Park Place. Such a study has been proposed by Robert Holder, community development specialist for the township.

The study would be conducted in cooperation with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a precinct committeeman, asked that revenue sharing funds be used to pay for sewer hook-ups for the needy.

Davis said such a fund had been created in the past, but "red tape" involving the sewer program, the money had to be spent on other projects. He said if the money had not been spent on other projects, it would have been lost to the state.

Davis said Mrs. Hawkins' idea, while fitting into federal revenue sharing guidelines, might not be legal under the guidelines for spending town money. Later, Town Clerk Douglas Teeter promised Mrs. Hawkins that he is investigating whether such a fund would be legal.

No official action was taken at the hearing on the proposed uses for the money, pending study of the township's overall budget, Davis said.

In the township board's only other major action, a bid of $10,700 from R. Don Electrical Co. of Granite City for an Arlington Heights-Holiday Mobile Home Park tornado warning siren was sent to committee for study and a recommendation.

THEY'RE ALL VALENTINES. The Madison County Bar Association held a Valentine dinner dance for members and spouses Tuesday night at Charlie's Restaurant. Four of the young women present were selected at random to receive special honors as valentines of the event. They are shown holding heart-shaped boxes of

Shooting leads to 8-year sentence

Nathaniel R. Manzy, 21, of the 500 block of Salveo Street, Venice, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve eight years in prison after Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosele found him guilty of armed violence and unlawful use of a weapon.

A charge of attempted murder and two counts of aggravated battery were dismissed.

Manzy allegedly shot Denise Hardy, 22, of the 1900 block of Bissell St., Venice, in the face with a shotgun in her home July 4, 1979.

She said she was in a bedroom when someone removed a covering over a broken window and fired a shotgun into the room. The blast broke her upper teeth, severely damaged her lower lip and cut her mouth and face, according to police.

Judge Mosele sentenced Manzy to serve eight years in prison on the armed violence charge and a concurrent five years in prison on the weapons charge.

FILES INJURY SUIT
Barbara Stubblefield has filed a lawsuit in Madison County Circuit Court against St. Elizabeth Medical Center and Dr. H. E. Toussaint. It alleges that on Feb. 7, 1979, she was admitted to the hospital for treatment and her medicine was changed. With medicine to prevent convulsions, she was injured, she alleges. The suit seeks fair compensation.

Study feasibility of coal gasification plant at local port

Efforts to obtain a coal gasification facility for the Tri-City Regional Port are continuing. The port board instructed the staff Monday night to begin contacting local industrial gas users to determine if they would be interested in purchasing a supply of fuel from the proposed plant.

The board has agreed that if a feasibility study now under way shows there are sufficient users, and if the projected cost of gas production is competitive with other fuel costs, planning for construction of such a facility should continue.

The Dravo Corp., Industrial Fuel Division, is assisting the port staff in attempting to determine the most effective interrelationships of companies and utilities to finance, construct and operate the gasification plant.

It also is preparing possible plant layout designs and estimating the capital and operating costs.

The $176,000 feasibility study is being financed, in part, through a $141,000 grant approved in November by the U.S. Department of Energy. The remainder of the cost is being born by the port district, Illinois Power Co. and the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

SAFETY BOX TAKEN

A locked safety box containing a home deed, checking and savings account books and miscellaneous papers is the only thing, known missing after a burglary at the home of Evelyn Bridgeman, 2415 E. 24th St., between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 2:55 a.m. Wednesday. Two bedrooms were ransacked and the telephone was torn from the kitchen wall and left in a bedroom. Glass in a door was broken to gain entry.

TELEVISION TAKEN

A window in a door was removed to gain entry to the home of Mary Sweeney, 2100a Dewey Ave., between noon and 2 p.m. Tuesday. A black and white portable television set is the only thing known missing. The burglars replaced the window in the door when leaving.

Madison man is sentenced

Larry D. Johnson, 21, of Grenzer Homes, Madison, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve three years in prison after pleading guilty to a felony charge of theft.

It is alleged he and another man were removing tires from a car in the 1000 block of Douglas Street Dec. 29, 1979, when seen by an off-duty Venice officer who arrested Johnson.

A second man fled and was shot by a Madison officer. He is recuperating from the wound.

The sentence on Johnson, which was in conjunction of a plea of guilty to a 1977 felony charge, was pronounced by Associate Judge John W. Day.

Five-year prison term

Ronald L. Davis, 27, of Rural Route Two, Box 710, Granite City, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve five years in prison after pleading guilty to voluntary manslaughter and burglary.

Davis allegedly shot and killed Robert Cannon, East Alton, during a disagreement in Cannon's driveway Dec. 7, 1979. He also pleaded guilty to a burglary which occurred Jan. 3, 1980, according to court records.

Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence, ordering Davis to serve two concurrent five-year prison terms for the two felonies.

Arrest juveniles

Three Madison and Venice boys, ages 15 and 16, were caught climbing over the fence from the National Steel Corp. south plant (the former Commonwealth plant) near Route 3 (old Route 151) at 9:40 a.m. Tuesday, carrying numerous pieces of scrap aluminum.

The three were seen by a Granite City Steel security officer and were chased on foot to Route 3, where Madison, Venice and Granite City police helped capture them.

They were charged with theft on complaints signed by Granite City Steel officials and were released to their parents on notices to appear before juvenile authorities.

WOMAN IS FINED

Debbie Lynn Gear-Brandon, 19, of the 2200 block of Grand Avenue, has been sentenced to serve one year of probation and to pay a $250 fine after pleading guilty to delivering marijuana to law enforcement officials Dec. 20, 1979. Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence.

Nissan auto plant urged

Will the Nissan Motor Co. build a Datsun auto assembly plant near Interstate 270 and Illinois Route Three in the Quad-Cities? The area is still under active consideration.

The question arose again when it was revealed this week that the Japanese government has urged Nissan and Toyota Motor Co., the two largest Japanese auto manufacturers, to export to the U. S. and begin production in America, in order to ease trade friction between the two countries.

Whether Governor James Thompson's visit to Japan next month will have any effect on local hopes is unknown. Japanese officials indicate his timing may be a bit early for any major decisions to be made.

But the Ministry of International Trade and Industry of Japan said it met with both Toyota and Nissan before the arrival Monday in Tokyo of United Auto Workers President Douglas A. Fraser. Japanese car exports to the U. S. have been rising steeply because of the growing demand for small, fuel-efficient vehicles, a demand related to soaring gasoline prices. The share of the market grew to 20 percent in January.

Fraser has been calling for Japan to limit its auto exports. He said at Tokyo that this is a "must" due to rising unemployment for members of his union.

Nissan President Takashi Ishihara told Fraser that imports are not responsible for the layoffs. He attributes the unemployment to U. S. firms failing to act fast enough to switch to small cars.

A Trade and Industry official said "orderly exports" are favored. He said the ministry is asking automakers to take U. S.-Japan relations into consideration but that it "can't force them to reduce their exports."

Regarding Japanese firms opening U. S. assembly plants, he said they will need to "think about a lot of things—whether they can acquire necessary parts in the U. S., the labor situation, as well as distribution systems. It takes a lot of time to do, and money, too. But it is the government's position to encourage production in the U. S."

Honda Motor Co. of Japan plans to start passenger auto production in Ohio in about 1982.

The Japanese government is sending an official to Washington soon to explain its desire to prevent the existing dispute from flaring into "a full-scale auto war."

Some U. S. officials have said the rapid inflow of autos, steel products and semi-conductors is threatening the future of many American industries.

Chain of Rocks Road in Mitchell or to annex south to Collinsville Road at Route 111.

He also said thoughts of annexing east, "to the bluffs," have been ruled out at this time.

The only village trustee absent when the resolution was passed was Jerry Wilson.

an opportunity that should be Ward One's.

"I left several notes on your desk, Mr. Mayor, saying it was all right with me for her to have the job. You never tried to communicate with me," Daniels said.

"These matters are generally dealt with by the aldermen," Mayor Tyrone Echols said. "I am not concerned with what Mr. Svezia said. Six council members voted that this man had worked part-time for two years as a toll taker and was entitled to the job."

"I as mayor am not concerned with any deals made by previous mayors. It is difficult to say what ward the next job will go to," Echols said.

Alderman Haynes said that he had mentioned giving Mrs. Hargis a chance at the job some time ago; however, he stated, that was before he knew about Modrusic's availability. "I have only been an alderman since April and I have nothing against the lady. I was willing to give her a shot at the job. I later found out that this man had been working part-time for two years, so I felt he was more qualified."

"In talking to Mrs. Hargis I told her that perhaps she could fill the part-time position. I did not know she was taping our conversation on the telephone and I really don't care, since I know what I said. I do feel that the law has been broken taping a phone conversation without me knowing it," Haynes said.

Alderman Svezia denied ever telling Mrs. Hargis she had a job.

A citizen in the audience challenged Svezia's denial, claiming Svezia had told him the city had hired Mrs. Hargis.

Silver rush

everything in stock, it was announced today by the new manager, Ron Zukerman, who was previously the operator of a successful business in Davenport, Ia.

A 20-to-1 exchange rate has been established. A half dollar, for example, will serve as $10 when applied to a purchase at Feder-Huber.

A silver dime will garner $2 worth of furniture; ten silver dollars will be worth $200 at the store.

Acknowledging that the exchange was decided upon after noting the current surge in the value of silver, Zukerman pointed out that the 20-1 ratio is more generous than the individual present market value of silver coins.

"Anything in the store, whether a sofa, television set, bedroom suite or other furniture or appliance, is available in exchange for 1964 or older silver coins," he said.

The offer went into effect today and will continue through Tuesday, Feb. 19.

Census to help show housing, energy and commuting needs

More than half the questions that will be asked in the 1980 census, which begins April 1, will focus on the nation's 86 million housing units — their condition, their value, home energy usage, and other subjects of statistical importance for the planning and management decisions that confront government and the private enterprise system. Compiling housing data has been a census assignment since 1850, but the modern-day census concern about the quality and characteristics of housing dates back to the 1930s, a time of national awakening to the poor state in which many Americans lived.

Resulting legislation increased the number and scope of housing-related questions from the 1940 census onward.

Census housing data is crucial to decisions about urban renewal, water and sewer availability, new school openings or shut-downs, mortgage assistance programs, mass transportation, and the control of local residential growth, to cite but a few applications that affect everyday life.

The census questions about people will be answered for each individual, but the housing questions will need to be answered just once per household.

The census is expected to count 86 million housing units, 17 million more than 10 years ago, ranging from thatched huts in the Trust Territories of the Pacific to condominiums along the East Coast, including more than six million vacant units. It is projected that there are 79 million households in 1980, 15 million more than in 1970.

Data from the 1980 census also will identify the latest trends in home energy use and commuter transportation. Between 1950 and 1975, the number of U.S. households using coal and wood diminished to less than one percent for each fuel, but natural gas usage increased from 23 percent to 57 percent of all households.

The home energy picture in 1980 may show wood and coal surging in popularity. Residential solar energy use is still too limited to affect nationwide statistics in 1980. Transportation planners will also learn from the census whether Americans are choosing to live and work in places with ready access to public transportation.

Commuters will be asked their work location, time spent getting to work, means of transportation to work and, for auto riders and drivers, how many people share the ride.

Public transportation use by commuting heads of household actually declined between 1960 and 1975, from more than 12 percent to less than six percent.

Recent upswings in the use of public transportation are reported, however, which the census will document. Close attention will be paid by energy planners to ownership and use of private passenger vehicles, including trucks and vans of less than one-ton capacity.

The number of U.S. households with two or more automobiles more than doubled between 1960 and 1975, and current estimates place the number of non-commercial trucks and vans at about 16 million.

Surveys conducted by the Census Bureau since 1970 indicate that the cost of keeping a roof over one's head will be higher than ever in 1980.

From mid-1977 to mid-1978, the average sale price of a new home jumped from $54,200 to $62,500, more than 15 percent.

In 1976, the average owner of a mortgaged home spent about 18 percent of his or her income for the mortgage, real estate taxes, property insurance, utilities, fuel, and trash collection; renters spent an average of 24 percent for housing. Both figures are likely to be much higher in the 1980 census.

Federal, state and local government agencies need census data to guide their housing programs, for the detailed statistics reveal the age and quality of a community's housing units, the income level, the patterns of growth or decline, the whereabouts of vacant housing, and the mass transportation needs, among other housing characteristics.

Private users of housing data range from builders who want to define new housing, or commercial markets to banks that use them to establish areswide criteria for lending mortgage money.

Private community development and neighborhood improvement groups often use the data to support fund-raising campaigns and grant proposals.

Census statistics are public information, available to all, although census information is never disclosed in ways that directly or indirectly link answers to a specific person or household.

Federal law imposes such confidentiality, and not once has the Census Bureau ever been formally charged with violating this law. Only census employees, sworn to secrecy, see the census answers given by specific individuals.

Future Farmers mark 52nd year

"Preparing for Progress" is the theme for the Future Farmers of America, a youth organization founded nationally in 1928 to strengthen vocational agriculture education. It is an organization where students can apply what they learn in the classroom to their own farming experiences and to their own lives, a "learning by doing" principle.

FFA Week is being observed here and nationally Feb. 16-23.

Leaders say the principle of "learning by doing" is still working. Millions of young men and women have studied vocational agriculture and participated in FFA since its beginning.

The founding ideals and basic concepts of FFA and "vo-ag" have never changed. But there have been new faces, new colors, new ideas, new people and, most important to agriculture, new techniques and a new agriculture.

The national organization of students, now over 500,000 strong, has groups in all 50 states and in Puerto Rico. Nearly 8,000 high schools have FFA chapters.

Future Farmers of America is made up of students with the objective of having a part in American agriculture.

The FFA says they recognize how far agriculture has come and appreciate what it was like in the past; they recognize, too, how far they can go and how great the future is.

FFA members believe that what they've got to do is to prepare for the future — to be "preparing for progress."

FFA activities are specifically designed to be a part of the instructional program in vocational agriculture.

Members learn through active participation, under the guidance of vo-ag instructors, how to conduct and take part in public meetings, how to speak in public, and how to take a leadership role in their school and community. FFA is called one of the best examples of youth in action in America today.

FFA seeks to make agricultural instruction more interesting by making it more competitive. Members complete supervised experience projects and have opportunities to participate in judging of contests, and taking part in public speaking contests and leadership development activities.

Each year, the FFA recognizes more than 80,000 members at the local, state and national levels for outstanding achievement activities related to agriculture careers and leadership.

Advancement through the degrees in the organization from Greenhand through Chapter Farmer, State Farmer, and American Farmer or Agribusinessman is based on achievement in farming, ranching, or agribusiness careers.

Funds for awards are provided by businesses, organizations, and individuals that sponsor FFA programs through the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

The Foundation provides nearly half a million dollars to make incentive awards available to deserving FFA members in the following award programs:

Star Farmer and Star Agribusinessman awards, 19 agricultural proficiency awards, public speaking, chapter awards, chapter safety, Building Our American Communities awards, judging contests, establishment in agriculture awards, and state-initiated program for improving agricultural leadership.

World food shortages have reaffirmed the need for continuing a strong program of vocational agriculture and the FFA, officials assert. They reiterate that the Future Farmers of America signifies "youth preparing for progress."

Thompson seeking vice-presidency, McPike forecasts here last night

Gov. James Thompson wants to be the next vice-president of the United States and has ignored what is best for the people of Illinois in his attempts to gain newspaper headlines, State Rep. Jim McPike contended during an address to the Granite City Democratic Club last night.

McPike said the Republican governor first talked about tax cuts and then vetoed the Democrats' five-cent reduction in the state sales tax.

Thompson then made news when he supported a one-cent decrease in the sales tax and made headlines with other tax-cutting measures. "If he had just signed the five-cent decrease in the sales tax on food and medicine, it would have come out about the same," McPike asserted. "That shows how shallow his experience and just how shallow his knowledge really is," he added.

"He is now running for vice-president. We should all be aware of that. Everyone running for President is looking for someone from the Midwest to run with," McPike said.

His remarks were made during the Democratic Club's candidate night at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Granite City. Eleven of the candidates for county and state offices spoke to the gathering of about 70 persons.

The evening also was marked by a confrontation between the two candidates for the office of county recorder of deeds.

David Knobloch of Alton, who is challenging incumbent Ron Lucas for that office, alleged that Lucas spends most of his day acting as mayor of Maryville.

"It is common knowledge his employees run the office and we pay him $24,000 a year in tax dollars. I believe the taxpayers deserve more than a rubber-stamp administration," Knobloch contended.

Lucas talked next and agreed, "I do have a good staff of people who work hard." However, Lucas responded, "I have served the people to the best of my ability," and he contended he works nearly 40 hours each week on county business.

He alleged the persons who urged Knobloch to run and are supporting Knobloch "are a bunch of dissident firefighters in my community."

Those present at the meeting also heard a polite review of qualifications and backgrounds by the three candidates for state's attorney, incumbent Nicholas G. Byron and challengers Dick Allen and Bill Haine.

Others who spoke included candidates for appellate judge, circuit clerk, coroner and county auditor.

areas of juvenile law and the prevention of child abuse since he began practicing law.

He testified before the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission, which held hearings on the problems of sexual abuse of children. Recently, Haine was chosen for the White House Regional Commission on Children.

He serves on numerous civic and political boards and commissions, including the board of directors of the Catholic Children's Home in Alton, the Youth, Family and Children's Advocacy Council in Belleville and the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

He is a member of St. Patrick's parish in Alton and serves as president of the St. Pat's Lay Legion. He is past president of the Middletown Alton Neighborhood Association.

Haine is married to the former Anna Schickel. They have four daughters, Cecilia, six years old; Elizabeth, five years old; Mary, two, and Margaret, one.

By JUDY TAPLIN

He has no powerful lawyers and no powerful political party backing him, but attorney Haine thinks he can win the job of Madison County state's attorney without them.

His "game plan" will be to take his campaign to the registered Democratic voters. And part of his "platform" will be the contention that Nick Byron, the incumbent, "has gone stale."

Byron really isn't interested in his job, Haine contends. He says Byron has even stated that he'd rather be a judge than state's attorney.

Haine says Byron's disinterest is evidenced in the fact that he "is not visible" in dealing with police departments, township officials and with the county board.

"I'm running because he's a poor administrator."

"You have to have a general policy on the approach to prosecution, Nick doesn't. I think it's because he's stale," he's not interested. He's not on top of his office," Haine said.

Haine

He concedes his challenge to Byron will be an uphill fight because of the incumbent's support by the Democratic party.

To win the Democratic nomination in March, Haine will also have to beat a third Democrat, attorney Dick Allen of Granite City.

Haine thinks he can get more votes than Allen, but acknowledges that Allen may be saying the same thing about him.

Haine said he was advised by a high-ranking independent Democrat to stay away from the recent Democratic screening from which party endorsements came.

He didn't take the advice, but now wishes he had. Byron received the Democratic central committee's endorsement.

Allen did not attend the screening. The winner of the three-way Democratic primary will face Republican Don Weber of Collinsville in the November election.

If elected, would Haine ask Weber and Stephanie Robbins to return as assistant state's attorneys? Both had been fired by Byron after taking city council posts last spring.

Haine said it wouldn't be proper to answer that, since Weber is in the state's attorney's race.

But Haine said Weber's and Robbins' ideas on prosecution "dovetail with mine... criminals need to be in jail. I could get any good prosecutor back, I would."

Haine says the Madison County state's attorney's office has a potential for greatness but needs to have career positions to stop a problem with turnover.

The office needs more money, but Byron hasn't really pushed for a bigger budget, Haine contends.

satisfaction and said, "I just wanted to prove that this type of intricate work can be done right in Granite City."

"There's no need to go to St. Louis for professional hair care. We have the most modern equipment available, plus a system of educating our stylists which is unequalled in this area," I believe."

Finally, with some last-minute help,

As a county board member, Haine says he told Byron some time ago that he would support him in getting more funds, but Byron did not ask his help.

Byron doesn't remember it like that. He says he asked Haine to help and the county board member proved "ineffective on that."

Byron said he thinks the county board did a good job with his budget. "I'm happy with it, although don't misunderstand me; I could always use more money."

Byron says few people realize how difficult the work in his office is. "It's not a bed of roses — it's a tough job."

He said of all the candidates, only Weber realizes this fact because he has been there.

Byron won't run again four years from now. He says he hopes his successor will come from within his office because of the importance of experience.

"I like Bill (Haine). I've got the greatest respect for him and I'm proud to have people like him" running for office, Byron said, adding that one of Haine's problems will be overcoming an image of inexperience.

Haine also criticized the fact that Byron does not handle court cases personally.

"I'd be in the courtroom, but I wouldn't dominate it," Haine said. He believes the state's attorney should "have a hand in" all aspects of his office from juvenile to felony cases, including the handling of preliminary hearings.

Referring to Byron's clampdown on games of chance at homecomings and picnics, Haine said he himself "wouldn't prosecute law-abiding people at non-profit games of chance."

Age 35 and looking even younger, Haine says he can bring vigor to an office now suffering from staleness.

"I want to associate my name with change," Haine told a reporter.

State sr. citizens endorse Kennedy

A major Illinois organization of senior citizens, said to represent 200,000 seniors throughout the state, has endorsed Sen. Edward Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The executive board of the Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens Organizations, a statewide umbrella group serving 800 senior clubs and centers throughout Illinois, voted 40-4 at its quarterly meeting in Peoria to support Kennedy.

"Our endorsement was based on Sen. Kennedy's leadership in Congress in behalf of older Americans and the broken promises of President Carter," Jerry Prete, president of the council, contended in announcing the endorsement. The council is the Illinois affiliate of the National Council of Senior Citizens. Prete, who served as Mr.

Carter's Illinois senior citizen chairman in 1976, charged that the president "broke his promise to support a meaningful system of national health insurance. And his administration has even moved to cut back Social Security benefits, proposing a reduction in benefits for burial costs, for education of dependents and for disability."

"Sen. Kennedy's record in behalf of senior citizens is almost without peer in Congress. In addition to leading the fight for national health insurance and the effort to resist the Carter cutbacks in Social Security, he was the chief sponsor of the nutrition for the elderly program that now provides hot meals to a half-million senior citizens across the country every day."

"He has been the congressional leader in the effort to protect seniors from the effects of Mr. Carter's decontrol of oil, which has hit retirees harder than any other group."

Prete also cited Kennedy's legislation to expand legal services to the elderly, his amendments to increase Social Security and Medicare benefits, and his work to increase the mandatory retirement age from 65 to 70.

"Despite the varied membership of our large executive board," Prete said, "our endorsement was almost unanimous because of the dramatic differences between the Kennedy and Carter records."

In a statement released by his Illinois campaign headquarters, Kennedy thanked the Illinois Council for its endorsement.

"I am grateful for the confidence your organization has shown in me," Kennedy said. "No segment of our society has been victimized more by inflation, and particularly energy costs, than older Americans."

"We should judge ourselves as a nation by how our government serves the needs of the elderly. The current administration has failed that test."

'Trial of Susan B. Anthony' recalls fight for right to vote

"The Trial of Susan B. Anthony" will be presented by the Victory's Insight Players of Champaign at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Madison County Courthouse.

Sponsored by the Metro-East Women's Political Caucus and performed on Susan B. Anthony's birthday, this play will recreate the trial which followed the 1872 election when Susan B. Anthony, her sisters and 11 other women cast their ballots.

The pre-trial hearing took place on Dec. 23, 1872, and the trial on June 17, 1873.

This presentation during Susan B. Anthony Week is a replay of the actual trial, expressing the attitudes of society toward women and the position of the 14th Amendment regarding the right to vote.

Susan B. Anthony, an ardent suffragist, rights advocate, devoted the rest of her life to establishing an amendment which would guarantee the women of America the right to vote.

She worked on the issue up to the time of her death on March 13, 1906, at the age of 86, and her final words in public were "failure is impossible."

The 19th Amendment guaranteeing women the right to vote was ratified in 1920. The public is being invited to tomorrow's performance of "The Trial of Susan B.

Anthony" at the County Courthouse on Main Street in Edwardsville.

Tickets at $3 for adults and $2 for students are available from Political Caucus members, the ERA Center in Alton and at the door on Feb. 15.

Sewer tap-on grants being formulated for Chouteau residents

The Chouteau Town Board of Trustees met briefly Monday night to discuss the sewer tap-on aid program. Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks said that about a dozen more applications have been received from low-income township residents for financial aid in linking their home sewers to the new county sewers, bringing the total number of applicants, thus far, to about 65.

He urged township residents who fall within the new income maximums to apply immediately at the township hall for full or partial aid, and stressed that aid given to residents under the tap-on program will not have to be repaid.

The maximum income guidelines, by family size, are: one person, $8,430 a year; two people, $9,675; family of three, $10,876; four, $12,100; five, $12,925; six, $13,775; and a family of seven, $14,600. Sparks said he is considering calling for a public meeting next month with the applicants and other eligible persons to discuss how the township can best help them with the funds available.

"What we need now are the applications, so we can set up a tentative program. Anyone falling within the income guidelines should contact the township office as soon as possible to get into this free, no-strings-attached grant program," Sparks said.

51% of women now have jobs

Unemployment rose in January, and there were contrasting developments in employment, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. Due to a rise in joblessness among adult men, the unemployment rate increased over the month from 5.9 to 6.2 percent, the highest rate since July 1978.

Total employment—as shown by the monthly survey of households—had little overall change in January, although there were diverse movements among adult men and women jobholders. Consistent with their rise in unemployment, employment among adult men was down markedly, while the number of adult women holding jobs increased.

In contrast to total employment, nonfarm payroll employment rose by 305,000 in January to 90.5 million. Persons unemployed increased 340,000 in January to 6.4 million. Most of this occurred among persons who were laid off or otherwise lost their last jobs. Over the past year, the jobless total has risen by 610,000.

With the increase in unemployment, the nation's jobless rate rose three-tenths of a point. It had remained within the narrow range of 5.7 to 5.9 percent over the prior 17-month period.

The January increase in unemployment was concentrated among adult men; their rate rose from 4.2 to 4.7 percent, the highest since November 1977.

Rates for adult women (5.8 percent) and teenagers (6.3 percent) were about unchanged over the month. Strong increases were also registered in the cyclically sensitive unemployment rates for married men, full-time workers, blue-collar workers, and workers in durable goods manufacturing.

There was no change in the number of nonfarm workers on part-time work schedules for economic reasons—sometimes termed the

"partially unemployed"—following large increases in the last quarter of 1979.

There was a drop of 800,000 in the number of men with jobs, while employment among adult women rose by 170,000. Employment also fell in the male-dominated blue-collar occupations.

Employment was up by 1.7 million from January 1979, the smallest over-the-year increase since January 1976. The civilian labor force grew by 230,000 from December and was up 2.3 million from a year ago; women accounted for the bulk of these increases. Their labor force participation rate reached a new high of 51.4 percent, while that of men and teenagers edged down over the month.

There was a net reduction in strike activity of 50,000. The bulk of the January employment growth occurred in service-producing industries. Gains were registered throughout the sector, with the biggest increases in trade (130,000), services (55,000), and transportation and public utilities (30,000).

Within the goods-producing sector, the construction industry posted an employment gain of 65,000. Overall employment in manufacturing was unchanged.

There was a decline of nearly 60,000 in transportation equipment, due to job cutbacks in automobile and parts, and smaller decreases in fabricated metal products and food processing.

These were offset by a return of striking workers in the machine industry, coupled with small increases in several other industries, primarily in the nondurable goods sector. Employment in mining remained near its December level.

Over the past year, payroll jobs have increased by two million, with 85 percent of the gain occurring in the service sector.

The average workweek of production or non-supervisory workers on private nonagricultural payrolls remained at 35.7 hours in January, a level maintained since November. Movements were small and generally offsetting among the major industries.

In manufacturing, average hours and overtime both edged up a tenth of an hour to 40.4 and 3.3 hours, respectively.

The index of aggregate weekly hours remained at 126.7 (1967 equals 100) in January and has risen by only 1.8 percent since January 1979. The manufacturing index, however, has decreased by 2.2 percent over the past year.

Average hourly earnings of production or non-supervisory workers on private payrolls rose 0.3 percent in January and were up 7.4 percent over the year (seasonally adjusted).

Average weekly earnings also rose 0.3 percent from December and were 7.1 percent above the January 1979 level.

Before adjustment for seasonality, average hourly earnings rose three cents in January to $6.41 and were 44 cents above January 1979. Average weekly earnings were $224.99, down $4.69 from December but still up $14.85 over the year.

The Hourly Earnings Index—earnings adjusted for overtime in manufacturing, seasonality, and the effects of changes in the proportion of workers in high-wage and low-wage industries—was 239.8 (1967 equals 100) in January, 0.2 percent higher than in December.

The index was 7.7 percent above January a year ago. In dollars of constant purchasing power, the index decreased 4.5 percent during the 12-month period ended in December.

TO STATE FINALS. Two Granite City High School North speech students, Mark Belleville, left, and Mark Kastelic, will advance to the IHSA state individual events finals on Friday and Saturday at Bradley University in Peoria. Both won first-place medals in the sectional tournament held last week at GCHS South. Belleville placed first in humorous interpretation and Kastelic won the gold medal in extemporaneous speaking.

Hits parked car

Edward Schmidt, 22, of 2332 Arnold Drive, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after his car allegedly struck the parked car of Donald Murphy, 2858 Washington Ave., in front of Murphy's home at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Schmidt was issued traffic tickets alleging reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. Witnesses contend that after striking the parked car and pushing it about 15 feet, Schmidt's auto backed up and left the scene, turning left onto 28th Street.

The car was stopped in the 2100 block of Madison Avenue and a Granite City ambulance took the driver to the medical center for treatment of head injuries.

MRS. ROBERT (KELLY) PINNELL, of Charleston, Ill., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dutko, 1808 Fifth St., Madison, has passed the Illinois Class A court reporting examination. She attended a two-year program in court reporting, free lancing and conference reporting at Lake Land College, Mattoon, Ill. A 1974 graduate of Madison High School, she attended Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

PROBATION IS GIVEN

Mark Randall, 21, of the 2400 block of West 23rd Street, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosole in Madison County Circuit Court to serve 18 months of probation and to pay a $375 fine after Randall pleaded guilty to two counts of delivery of a controlled substance. He allegedly delivered drugs to undercover agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois Aug. 15 and Sept. 6, 1979.

Mrs. Halle M. (Ables) George, 79, of Granite City, Ill. for eight years, died at her home on 7:05 a.m. Tuesday.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Increase in marriages

The numbers of births and deaths in Madison County remained constant between January 1979 and last month, while the number of marriages increased slightly, according to a monthly report issued by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

Her report showed that 277 babies were born last month in the county, one less than the 278 born in January 1979. However, the number of boys declined from 142 in January 1979 to 139 last month while the number of girls increased slightly, from 136 to 138.

There were four sets of twins born in January 1980, compared with two sets of twins in the same month 61 last year.

TWO GET PROBATION

Robert Duffield, 17, of the 2100 block of Dawn, and Darrell James, 17, of the 2100 block of Grand Avenue, have been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve one year of probation and to make restitution of $8 each after they pleaded guilty to a burglary which occurred Jan. 16. Blue holly trees thrive in this area

By WAYNE SIEFERT
Area Horticulture Adviser

Blue Hollies are a sensational family of holly trees that are being tested and "watched" by nurserymen in Illinois.

Blue hollies are so sensational because they have sturdy purplish-blue stems, deep-green evergreen leaves and attractive red berries.

But whenever a "new" plant appears in the market, both nurserymen and horticulturists are undecided until they can prove it can take the winters as well as the hot summers.

In the winter of 1978-79, the "blue holly" group of new plants became part of the St.

Louis scene. Snow-bank survival last year can be rated as good. Entire plantings survived with a minimum of damage.

Those same plants thrived under our summer weather. Only time will tell whether you, the customer, will help this new holly become a "horticultural gem."

Here are a few details. Male and female plants are required to get a crop of berries. The blue hollies, known in the textbooks as "Meserve" hollies, will not pollinize with American holly trees or other species of holly that might be growing in the neighborhood.

They have a tendency to become dense broad pyramids rather than slender, branched trees.

They will become too large for a front door planting, but should be excellent for a corner plant for larger homes, as a screen plant between patios or a nearby specimen outside a kitchen or dining room window.

In the spring, visit a local nurseryman and ask about blue or "meserve" holly trees.

Cardinal football training camps each year.

During his career at KMOX, he has covered numerous historic events in sports, including the settlement of the 1972 major league baseball players' strike in Chicago, and KMOX's live broadcast from Japan of the 1976 game between the football Cardinals and the San Diego Chargers, the first professional football game played outside the United States.

Although Wilkerson's duties are now primarily in the sports area, his assignments since joining KMOX in 1970 as a news writer and reporter have been diverse. He covered the 1972 Democratic and Republican national conventions in Miami and he has served as host of At Your Service programs.

His interest in broadcast extends beyond his position at KMOX. He designed and taught a course in broadcast journalism at Maryville College in St. Louis, and he frequently conducts broadcast workshops for area high school and college students.

Observe 75th anniversary of Rotary; group began in Illinois

Rotary International, a service association of over 16,000 Rotary clubs with over three-quarters of a million members worldwide, is observing its 75th anniversary this month.

Rotary is an organization of business and professional men united worldwide who provide humanitarian service, encourage high ethical standards in all vocations, and help build good will and peace in the world.

"Service above self" is a Rotary motto.

The association of all Rotary clubs constitutes Rotary International. Its headquarters are in Evanston, Ill. As of October 1979, there were more than 850,000 Rotarians in 18,300 clubs in 133 lands.

The association is administered by a president and board of directors elected by Rotarians worldwide. The 1979-80 president of Rotary International is James L. Bomar Jr. of Shelbyville, Tenn.

The first Rotary club was organized in 1905 in Chicago by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer.

The name of the organization was derived from the fact that the original members met in rotation at their various places of business.

In 1910, the association became international with the formation of a club in Winnipeg, Canada. The name Rotary International was adopted in 1922.

Each Rotary club meets weekly so that members may enjoy each other's fellowship and discuss the club's service goals.

Membership is by invitation, and is on the basis of one representative of each business, profession and institution; this classification system ensures a cross-section of community representation.

Each Rotary club determines its own service activities. These include: support of education, scouting and other youth organizations; special services for the elderly; aid to the handicapped; health care projects; local civic as well as international activities; environmental projects; cultural activities; and promotion of high vocational ethics.

More than 15,000 young people have received awards from the Rotary Foundation to study in countries other than their own.

In 1979-80, the Foundation is spending $11,600,000 on scholarships for more than 1,400 young people.

Over the next two years (1980-82), trustees of the Rotary Foundation have committed $30 million to its awards programs.

Scholarships are for undergraduate and graduate students, teachers of the handicapped, young people in technical training programs, journalists, and for exchange of groups of young business and professional men for study and travel abroad.

The Foundation is supported by voluntary contributions from Rotarians and others.

The 3-H Program (Health, Hunger and Humanity) is a new Rotary initiative that marshals Rotary resources and manpower to accomplish large-scale humanitarian projects, such as an immunization program in a developing country.

An Interact Club is a service club sponsored by Rotary clubs for young people of secondary school age. As of October, there were more than 77,800 Interact members in 3,500 clubs in 72 countries.

A Rotaract Club is a service club sponsored by Rotary clubs for young adults between 18 and 28. As of October, there were more than 63,700 members in nearly 3,200 clubs in 78 countries.

Rotary Youth Leadership Awards (RYLA) is a program of seminars, conferences and leadership camps to help develop—and recognize—good citizenship and leadership qualities in young people.

Through World Community Service, Rotary clubs in a donor country assist a Rotary club in another land with manpower, funds or equipment for a community project.

Rotary clubs and districts annually sponsor more than 5,000 young people of secondary school age for travel abroad for a school year or a holiday.

In Rotary Overseas Vocational Exchange (ROVE), young men and women aged 18-25 work in their own vocation in another country.

Rev. LeRoy Henry Sr., pastor of St. James United Methodist Church, Lawrenceville, Ill., will be the featured speaker for Human Relations Day, Sunday, Feb. 17, at Nameoki United Methodist Church, at the 10:45 a.m. service, according to the Rev. Dr. Max L. Martin, host pastor.

Rev. Henry attended Southern Illinois University and McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., and Phillips Seminary. He is presently Race Relations officer for the U.S. Government, Rev. Martin added.

Through the witness and service of persons involved in projects supported by a special offering, the United Methodist Church performs a unique ministry that aids in the development and improvement of communities and the well-being of people, the goals of the kingdom—justice and salvation—become a reality.

The 1980 Human Relations Day theme, "Keep Caring, Keep Sharing," affirms our commitment that the church must continue to do its share in the name of Christ, Rev. Martin said.

Rev. Martin announced through our gifts to the Human Relations Day offering, a seminar, through the In-Service Training Program, will receive specialized training in an outreach program of a local church.

Dispute on Layton Road maintenance

The two-year-old battle regarding whether or not Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic and his department are responsible for maintaining Layton Road, near the southwestern end of Horseshoe Lake, is continuing—with several new volleys fired by each side. Prospects of a truce seem slim at this time.

William Nichols, a land owner, and Quality Sand Co., which dredges the lake at the end of Layton Road for sand, contend they recently had to split a $4,000 bill for repairing the road and have had to resurface the roadway more than 20 times since Mehelic took office in late 1977.

They contend Layton Road is a dedicated township highway which had been maintained by the township for 15 years until Mehelic took office.

Mehelic said this week that statement is only "half right."

The commissioner said he can show documents left behind by former highway commissioner Albert Bell which show Quality Sand paid for materials and supplies to repair the road under bell, and the township hauled the materials to the site and repaired the roads.

"That only makes sense, because Quality Sand is damaging the roads, using tractor-trailers with 73,000 to 75,000 pound loads. Layton Road has a five-ton load limit," Mehelic alleged. Nichols disagrees with the load limit, saying, "There is none to my knowledge, unless he put signs up today."

Mehelic contended, "The previous commissioner had an agreement, since they were tearing up that road I have tried to honor the agreement."

He also said that since the Illinois Conservation Department purchased both sides of the road, he has been trying to vacate it from the list of township roads.

"One farmer on Layton Road and another on Bend Road are objecting, since they still live there. Park Ranger Matt Tueth also has a home back there. We try to plow the snow to get them out, but on road maintenance, I have proof there was a deal made and I am just trying to honor it."

"Nichols wants me to spend about $10,000 of the taxpayers' money to keep that road repaired for a commercial firm to use."

"Tax income from that area is way down, because the Conservation Department does not pay taxes on that property now (purchased for a lake park)."

"I told Nichols and Quality Sand that if they wanted to pay for materials, I will maintain that road, like Al Bell did. I will do the work," Mehelic summarized.

Wood-oil fuel sought. A number of experiments are under way aimed at manufacturing a liquid, oil-like fuel from wood.

The Granite City Post Office is utilizing the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin when making change for patrons.

Governor James Thompson yesterday unveiled a $289 million tax cut plan giving a $10 per person rebate and reducing the sales tax on food and medicine from four to three cents while boosting benefits for the aged and handicapped.

Democratic legislative leaders called it a political gimmick and said the Republican chief executive has been "hoarding" tax funds so he could make a dramatic reduction proposal.

Proposed state definitions of hazardous wastes are vague, uneconomical and inaccurate, critics asserted at a hearing Wednesday at SIUE. Dr. John Manda of Granite City Steel said the plan is premature because federal rules are still being written.

The Illinois court administrator opposes a plan by a legislative subcommittee to remove Bond County from the present Madison-Bond counties judicial circuit.

A current Chicago area poll shows Alan Dixon (D) might beat William Scott (R) 2-1 if the two are nominated for the U.S. Senate March 18.

Robert J. Walters, Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association executive director, spoke in opposition against Illinois AFO Pres. Robert Gibson, formerly of Granite City, spoke in favor of a proposed industrial plant relocation law at a hearing Monday at SIUE. The latter said it is needed to soften the blow when plants are closed. The former said such a law could persuade firms not to locate in this state.

Madison County owes the state $98,500 for part of the back pay of Third Circuit judges. Reimbursement required by state law was initially withheld pending settlement of a disagreement over the effective date of the law. The County Board's finance committee said the amount is still owed and was omitted from the new budget by an oversight.

The Carter administration says that if the military draft is renewed, it favors random selection of 20-year-olds first. Student ministers would be exempted.

Morris, Ill., may be chosen as a nation of nuclear waste dump site.

An added cigarette tax is being pushed as a way to provide a tax subsidy in this area but officials say it might merely force cigarette sales elsewhere and also could enhance the untaxed cigarette sales frauds.

Student hurt in donkey ball game

James Lewis, 18, of 2433 Delmar Ave. suffered a head injury when he fell from a donkey during a donkey basketball game in Memorial Gymnasium last night.

Lewis was hurt during a game in which the Booster clubs of both high schools played the faculties. Witnesses said he bumped his head when he fell.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, after examination here showed possible internal injuries.

STRUCK ON HEAD

Summons HELP
Ronald Eugen Britton, of Caseyville, was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital after being treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for lacerations to his head and signs of internal bleeding. Britton, according to the Madison County sheriff's department, was attacked in East St. Louis and struck several times in the head with a shotgun.

His assailants then forced him into Britton's car, drove him to the Horseshoe Lake area, dumped him out of the auto and stole his 1973 brown LeSabre Buick. Britton managed to make his way to the Air Products Trucking Terminal, where the sheriff's office was called. The case has been turned over to the East St. Louis police department.

Lock and dam replacement proceeding; efficiency of work will spotlight this area's construction 'climate'

The new river lock and dam project here has been called one of the biggest civil works ever begun, and it unquestionably will have two major impacts, aside from the basic objective of expediting the handling of waterway traffic.

The first effect will be the immense volume of economic and employment activity that will be generated. The multi-year undertaking two miles downstream from Alton Locks and Dam 26 will involve thousands of jobs and the expenditure of a half-billion dollars.

The second impact will develop from the degree of construction efficiency achieved. The eyes of the nation will be on the project, and it will effectively label this region as either a good or bad place to invest construction dollars.

Union and management participating in the mammoth replacement task met Feb. 5 at the office of the Carpenters District Council of Madison County and vicinity for a pre-job conference.

Contractors for the $41 million cofferdam work conferred with nearly 30 labor representatives from Illinois and Missouri; an earlier agreement had divided the work between residents of the two states.

C. L. Kuldell of the Council of Contractor Associations, a coordinator for the project, chaired the meeting, aided by William Horstman, secretary of the AFL-CIO's Southwestern Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council. Prime cofferdam contractors are J. S. Alberici of St. Louis and Lahr Brothers of Columbia, Ill.

While builders and union officials were discussing how to achieve safe, sound and efficient work procedures, the Association for the Improvement of the Mississippi River was active in Washington, D.C.

Certain railroads and environmental groups had tied up the lock-dam replacement for more than five years through legal action ultimately decided in favor of proponents of the project.

The AIMR has just appealed the portion of the Oct. 23 ruling by U. S. District Judge Charles Richey in which he said the Army Corps of Engineers should have held a public hearing after the authorization by Congress. The major point of his opinion was that the Corps adequately assessed the environmental impact, but he added that the Corps had violated its own rules by failing to schedule a hearing.

The lock-dam opened appeal of the Richey ruling cites his reference to the idea of a public hearing.

The AIMR contends that the courts have no authority to review impact issues once a project has been approved by Congress and the president. It will assert that a hearing was not required by law because the work had been approved by an act of Congress, and also that judgment on compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act because the federal legislators had by their favorable action found it in compliance.

River bank preparation work is starting and the cofferdam project will begin soon. It is felt that the foes' appeal will not impede the construction. A court victory no authority to pass judgment on compliance, or that the courts lacked power to review environmental compliance—would give further assurance that the replacement of the aged and deteriorated facilities will not be interrupted.

All of which is highly encouraging, particularly since many people are convinced that the environment not only won't be helped by the new dam and lock.

But the current efforts to keep the project lean and affordable also are highly important, since they can have such a big effect on the future viability of this region as a center of construction, shipping and manufacturing—and on the speed with which Congress votes further appropriations.

Quadrants recall vividly the huge, generation-ago chore of building the Chain of Rocks Canal and the local harbor, situated near the southern end of the eight-mile rerouting of the Mississippi River shipping channel.

There were both positive and negative aspects of that big project. Residents are hopeful that the new lock and dam can "accentuate the positive and eliminate the negative," as the old Johnny Mercer song urges.

Lovejoy situation still in the dark

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The Illinois High School Association made a decision on the Lovejoy High School case — but nobody's talking.

The IHSA is making an inquiry into charges that Lovejoy played in three invitational basketball tournaments this season, one more than the two allowed by IHSA regulations.

Contacted by telephone early this morning, IHSA Associate Executive Secretary Dave Fry said that a decision was made yesterday at a regular meeting of the Board of Directors, but that it's against IHSA policy to discuss such matters with the press until the school involved has been contacted.

The IHSA had not yet made contact with the Lovejoy officials. That was 7:30 a.m.

At 8 a.m., IHSA executive secretary Laverne Astroth was contacted by telephone, but said he had not yet contacted Lovejoy.

Finally, at 10 a.m., Triplett got to work. But he was on the phone for some time — presumably with Astroth. It was said he would return the reporter's call.

At 10:15 a.m., Triplett answered the phone said Triplett wouldn't be in "for an hour."

At 10:25 a.m., another Press-Record reporter called Lovejoy and asked for Triplett, but did not identify himself as a reporter.

At 10:37 a.m., Triplett returned his call and said he had heard nothing from the IHSA.

According to IHSA Executive Secretary Jim Flynn, punishment for such a violation could range from a mere "slap on the hand" to suspension from the IHSA.

Post-season regional tournament. Lovejoy is to be entered in the Dupo small school regional, along with Madison, Venice, east St. Louis Assumption, Columbus, Dupo and Belleville St. Henry.

Maybe. Maybe not.

Third time is no charm, Althoff drops North in OT

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Bill Ohlendorf propped his feet up on a chair in the coaches' office above the now-quiet gymnasium at Granite North High. His arms folded, he silently shook his head. He spoke familiar words. "We don't know how to win."

Press-Record

Sports

GRANITE CITY (Ill.) PRESS-RECORD, Thursday, Feb. 14, 1980 — 21

Three technical fouls were called on Althoff players.

One came in the third quarter when Althoff's Matt Hardin issued a flagrant technical and ejected from the game for shoving North's Mike Robertson.

"I'm disappointed with our players' losing their composure," said Althoff coach Al Poppe. "There's no excuse."

Ohlendorf sighed and turned to the reporter. "I'll interview them for a change," he said. "What happened? What made the difference?"

The reporter answered, "The second quarter, don't you think, coach?"

Ohlendorf answered, "Yeah, that was part of it I guess. But those damn one-and-ones. We missed four of 'em."

The coach then re-played each of the one-and-one free throw situation in his head and came up with a revised account. "No! It was five! We missed five one-and-ones."

Those inches again. After taking an early lead, North let the Crusaders off the hook in the second period, fought back to take the lead in the third and found itself in a position to win the game in the waning minutes.

Bob Batey, who spent much of the night spawled on the court, diving for steals, was fouled by Althoff's Ted Junter, as the Steelers stalled for the last shot.

There was 1:12 remaining. After two Althoff timeouts, Batey stepped to the line. His free throw hit the front of the rim and then the back. It bounced away harmlessly.

Cripps got the ball at about the midcourt stripe, dribbled twice and let fly with a 45-footer that was in the air as the buzzer sounded. If it was good, North would win. If not, overtime.

The noisy gym became silent. The ball was in slow-motion.

It hit the back of the rim and seemed to stay there for eons. Then it rolled away.

Another inch. In the overtime, North found things just as frustrating. Trailing by one with 10 seconds left, the Steelers got the ball. With Ohlendorf screaming for a timeout, the team rushed down the court. They didn't hear him.

He said, "Next to them, I start two midgets at guard."

Graham said that getting his team inspired for a game with a Granite City school never used to be a problem.

But such is not the case now.

North coach Bill Ohlendorf said he can't be optimistic going into Saturday's game with South. "We just lost to the same team (Belleville Althoff) three straight times and now have the task of playing a team that stomped us by 30 points last time we played."

Trojans tie for first

GRANITE CITY — The Madison Trojans moved back into first place in the Press-record, Collinsville Herald poll of area Class A basketball coaches. Madison finds itself tied with Okawville, which was the leader the past two weeks.

Madison, even though it received one less first place vote than Okawville, got enough seconds and thirds to gain the tie. Both finished with 44 points.

Lovejoy also got one more first place vote than did Madison's Trojans, but had no second place votes, two thirds and one sixth, dropping them from a tie for second last week with Madison into third place with 41 points.

Lebanon, after losing to East St. Louis Assumption at home last week, finds itself in fourth place, with 36 points. Assumption moved into fifth, seven points

West Maroons hand South girls first defeat

NORM'S ANGEL. Granite City South's Chris Boyd (35) swoops in for a rebound Tuesday night in Belleville. Boyd is one of the area's top female basketball players. However, she and her teammates weren't up to the test against Belleville West. They were defeated and thus handed first-year coach Norm Grote his first loss in his new job.

Graham's been on the other side of press

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — It was sort of like seeing things from the other side.

Granite City South's previously undefeated girls basketball team were beaten for the first time this season, Tuesday night, by Belleville West.

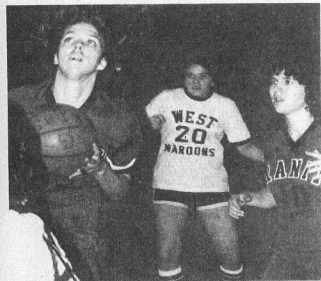

Ironically, what happened to the Warriors is precisely what South has been doing to other teams all year long. Belleville used the kind of pressure defense that has been a trademark of the South girls.

None of the Warriors would know about that sort of thing better than South's play-making guard Nita Graham.

But against Belleville, maybe for the first time all season, Graham knew what it felt like on the other side of the press.

"It was really tough," she said. "We knew they were good, but we just weren't used to that kind of pressure."

Watching as more than once, Graham struggled to get the ball across the time line before time ran out and the ball changed hands, though, you got the feeling that she was getting a first-hand lesson about what it was like to be the victim not the victor.

"Maybe it was good for us to lose to West," Graham said. "We saw some things for the first time."

It wasn't the last time the Warriors would see these things, though. Yesterday in practice following the loss to Belleville, South coach Norm Grote had eight girls on the practice floor pressing his starting five.

"That's what we needed," Graham said. "It seemed like West had eight girls on us too. We did pretty good in practice, though. We got the ball down the court."

Getting the ball down the court is Graham's responsibility. Once in position, it is also her job to set plays in motion. She is ball handler and play-maker.

"There's some pressure," Graham said of her roles with the Warriors. "But most of it is from me. I know I've got to play good."

Fortunately for Graham, however, the Warriors have a fine target for the guard's passes. Chris Boyd the Warriors front-court power, is to whom Graham often first looks for help.

"She can go one-on-one with anyone," Graham said. "She can go three-on-one with anyone."

Still it is up to Graham to start things rolling. Even Boyd can't help her there. "I'm better if there's no pressure, but when things start bad I panic sometimes. I think, 'Oh no, that's my best play and if it didn't work nothing will.'"

If she is uncertain, it doesn't show.

With a ball in her hand, Graham looks confident.

That, Graham says is a matter of practice and observation. As the daughter of Madison high school's varsity basketball coach Larry Graham, she's had the opportunity to do both.

"Sometimes I watch his practices and listen to his lectures to his team, and I pick up things," Graham said of her father.

And as a ball handler and shooter the influence is apparent.

Against Belleville, Graham scored two consecutive long-range baskets that would have done her father proud.

"My dad doesn't get a lot of chances to watch me play," Graham said. "He's busy with his team at the same time. But when the elder Graham does attend the Warrior games, Nita said she's aware of his presence."

"I know he's watching and he'll go over the game with me later on. But he's really not bad about it. I probably play better when he's there."

BELLEVILLE — When

the whistle sounded indicating Granite City South Warrior Chris Boyd's fourth foul here Tuesday night, the effect was about the same as if the Warrior girls were made to play handcuffed.

It happened with 4:15 left in the second quarter. Boyd went up for a rebound, and when she landed all she came up with was a stifling foul.

Boyd was left in a position of trying to keep herself in the game, at the expense of her invaluable talents under a basketball net.

The Belleville West's girls were left in envious shape, and capitalized with a 62-41 victory and left South with its first blemish on an otherwise perfect season record of 8-1.

"When Chris got her third foul in the first quarter," Warrior coach Norm Grote said. "We knew we were in trouble. It took our man-to-man away. It took our press away. And she couldn't be as aggressive on the boards."

Chris Boyd is obviously a valuable member of the Warrior team.

Perhaps her most significant contribution to South is her defense and rebounding. Tuesday, from about the end of the second quarter, Boyd was unable to do either.

"She just had to keep her hands up and move in front of whoever she was guarding," Grote said. "She couldn't even jump."

The result was that Belleville was able to control the center of play with West's Bonnie Weiss and Melody Edwards towering over the rest of the Warriors.

The pair of Maroons totaled 29 points.

Neutralizing Boyd and throwing in baskets wasn't all West had going, though. The Maroons displayed an defense that literally had South running in circles.

With just over a minute left in the third quarter, behind 40-28, the Warriors desperately needed to score to cut West's growing lead.

South's Nita Graham took an inbound pass and turned to face Belleville's press. Graham struggled upcourt and sent a pass over the time line just in time, but the ball was quickly stolen.

On South's next possession, Graham didn't even make as far as center court. The West press caused South called for too much time.

And the press was just one variation of multiple defense the Maroons used. "What hurt us more than anything," Grote said, "was their man-to-man. But I think they caught us off guard. They showed us everything. Man-to-man, 1-3-1, the press, they mixed it up pretty good. And they disguised it well."

But the story might have been different if Boyd hadn't been hampered with foul trouble.

Even though she scored 21 points before fouling out very late in the game, Boyd's necessary cautiousness on defense was crippling to the Warriors.

South's press, which had led the Warriors to their eight previous wins, was shelved after the first quarter.

But after South stopped pressing, West pulled comfortably ahead. The Warriors pulled to within a point when Graham sent in two consecutive 20-footers with about a minute left in the first period.

But then Boyd was called for foul number three with 33 seconds left and the resulting free throws gave West a 16-12 lead. They led 18-12 at the close of the quarter.

In the second period South dropped back into a zone defense and Belleville went to work. It was 31-23 at the half, and meanwhile Boyd was called for foul number four.

Grote said he thought of replacing Boyd in the lineup in the third quarter, but didn't because the Warriors, behind by 10 points needed Boyd's defense.

"We decided not to take her out until she fouled out," Grote said. "But we couldn't risk losing her by pressing either. Our hands were tied."

West increased its lead to 42-28 in the third period and finished the Warriors off in the fourth.

It was the Warriors' first loss, but a point was made. South isn't the only girls team that can play pressure defense.

North girls defeated

BELLEVILLE — The Granite City North girls basketball team came up short here Wednesday night and dropped a Gateway East Conference game to Belleville Althoff 40-32.

But North coach Harry Cook knows his team should have won the game.

"The game was ours to win," said Cook. "All we had to do was put the ball in the hole."

North did not put the ball in the hoop — much. North shot a dismal 13 of 48 from the field.

"You're not going to beat very many teams shooting that poorly," said Cook. "But we still had our chances late in the game."

In fact, North trailed by only five points with four minutes remaining in the game. The Steelers forced three straight Althoff turnovers, but could capitalize on any of them.

Despite dropping the game, Cook did see his team do many things right.

"We've cut down on our turnovers quite a bit," he said. "And we played pretty tough defense. I thought."

On defense, North clogged the middle on Althoff's top scorer, Sue Abernathy, and limited her to 14 points, 10 shy of her 24 p.p.g. average.

North trailed by only four at the end of the first quarter.

The Steelers were outscored by 11-8 in the second, and 9-7 in the third, but it was just enough to let Althoff sneak away with the victory.

"We've got Roxana Thursday," said Cook. "And we will be preparing for it. I think the girls' attitude is good."

Roller coaster Cougars to face UMSL test Friday

EDWARDSVILLE — The season's biggest crowd attended last Saturday night's basketball game between the high-flying Leathernecks of Western Illinois University and the host Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on the court of the Edwardsville High gym, and the fans got their money's worth.

The Leathernecks won the game, 79-77, but the Cougars fans, while assuredly somewhat disappointed, had to be proud of their team's efforts.

With the victory, Western's record went to 17-6, a mark almost surely good enough to win the Major Indoor Soccer League All-Star game at the Cjckerdome in St. Louis.

The tickets, priced at $5, are available from Bob Yount, Mike Vincent 11, and, grim as the prospect is, made it mandatory that they win their remaining five games if their post-season tourney hopes are to remain faintly alive.

The Cougars face another stern test Friday when they battle the Rivermen of the University of Missouri at St. Louis on the road. The SIUE vs. UMSL cage series is the longest between the two schools.

UMSL enjoys a 14-9 advantage in the series.

However, the Cougars have closed the gap dramatically as they have won five of their last eight encounters with the Rivermen, including a two-game sweep last year.

This year, UMSL has a new coach, Tom Bartow, who is struggling with a losing 7-13 record, but who has his charges apparently on a winning course at last.

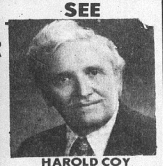

After graduation from Eastern Wilson was hired as an assistant coach at Caryle High School, having won six of 10 at home. "Whatever Friday's outcome between UMSL and SIUE, the two bitter foes will meet again in the Cougars' final game at home, Wednesday, Feb. 27.

Susan Anthony honored for leading campaign for women's right to vote

During Susan B. Anthony Week (Feb. 10-16) the Metro-East Women's Political Caucus is calling attention to the leading women's rights advocate of her time.

"To honor Susan B. Anthony for the dedication and devotion she gave to working for the constitutional amendment guaranteeing American women the right to vote, we are spotlighting her long and active life," Sibyl H. Bellas, caucus chairman, said.

Highlighting Susan B. Anthony Week, the Metro-East Women's Political Caucus is presenting "The Trial of Susan B. Anthony," performed by the Victory's Insight Players of Champlain College, on Friday, Feb. 15, Miss Anthony's birthday.

Susan Brownell Anthony was born in Adams, Mass. on Feb. 15, 1820, to a Quaker family.

Her father expressed the Quaker tradition of equality for women — he recognized and respected his daughters' intelligence and gave them a good education. He taught them to be self-reliant and encouraged them to become self-supporting.

As a member of the only major religious group that allowed women equal participation in church affairs, she grew up hearing women speak freely and developed a sense of self-respect and dignity unusual in women at that time.

When her father's business failed during the depression of 1837, she taught school to help support the family. Everything was lost: the mill, her home and even the clothes worn by family members were sold. She introduced the first women's suffrage amendment in December 1848, but it received little attention.

Seeing the need for an effective organization devoted exclusively to suffrage, Miss Anthony and George W. Julian formed the National Woman Suffrage Association in 1869.

Their opposition to Negro enfranchisement in the 15th Amendment without including women, and their interest in divorce and labor questions as well, caused a schism in the women's movement which lasted for two decades.

The dissidents, led by Lucy Stone, formed the American Woman Suffrage Association, which disapproved of the drive for a federal woman suffrage amendment, favoring instead a state-by-state approach.

Undaunted, Susan Anthony carried on with her unusual single-mindedness for the next 30 years, traveling ceaselessly throughout the country, working for a federal suffrage amendment and in various state campaigns.

The first success was in 1870 when the Wyoming Territory granted women the right to vote. In 1872, Susan, her sisters and 11 other women tested the 14th Amendment. They argued that it gave them the right to vote, and the inspectors registered them and four days later allowed them to vote.

Arrested and indicted for voting illegally, she was tried in the U.S. District Court, pronounced guilty by a hostile judge without a trial of the jury, and fined $300. Although she refused to pay the fine, no further steps were taken against her.

After many years the New York legislature and some other states gave married women better legal status, including the right to retain their own earnings, to sue in court and to have equal guardianship of their own children.

After the Civil War began, Susan Anthony worked for passage of the 13th Amendment, organizing the Women's Loyal National League, which secured hundreds of thousands of signatures on petitions calling for Negro emancipation.

Dismayed that the 14th Amendment not only failed to enfranchise women but for the first time introduced the word "male" into the Constitution, she devoted her efforts to the voting rights movement.

In 1868 she started a women's suffrage paper called "The Revolution" with herself as publisher and Elizabeth Cady Stanton as one of the editors. It was a crusading paper, advocating an "educated suffrage irrespective of sex and color," equal pay to men and women for equal work, practical education for girls, the opening of new occupations to women, more liberal divorce laws, and encouraging employed women to form unions to win higher wages and shorter hours.

It always stressed the importance and power of the vote, and in May 1870 she reluctantly turned the paper over to a new owner but assumed the entire $10,000 in debt.

For the next six years, she took on a strenuous lecture schedule, traveling on trains and stagecoaches in all kinds of weather, and in poor food and accommodations in dreary hotels until the entire debt was paid.

Meanwhile, though the efforts of Susan Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Senator Samuel Pomeroy of Kansas and Congressman George W. Julian of Indiana introduced the first women's suffrage amendment in December 1868, but it received little attention.

Undaunted, Susan Anthony carried on with her unusual single-mindedness for the next 30 years, traveling ceaselessly throughout the country, working for a federal suffrage amendment and in various state campaigns.

The first success was in 1870 when the Wyoming Territory granted women the right to vote. In 1872, Susan, her sisters and 11 other women tested the 14th Amendment. They argued that it gave them the right to vote, and the inspectors registered them and four days later allowed them to vote.

Arrested and indicted for voting illegally, she was tried in the U.S. District Court, pronounced guilty by a hostile judge without a trial of the jury, and fined $300. Although she refused to pay the fine, no further steps were taken against her.

After many years the New York legislature and some other states gave married women better legal status, including the right to retain their own earnings, to sue in court and to have equal guardianship of their own children.

After the Civil War began, Susan Anthony worked for passage of the 13th Amendment, organizing the Women's Loyal National League, which secured hundreds of thousands of signatures on petitions calling for Negro emancipation.

Dismayed that the 14th Amendment not only failed

1925 founding of Madison Rotary Club is recalled

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Rotary International is celebrating the 75th anniversary of the organization and soon the Madison-Venice Rotary will celebrate the club's 55th year.

The M.V. club was instituted on March 18, 1925, in a move led by Lewis L. Lindley of Granite City, editor of the Press-Record at that time, and by Henry Connoles of Madison. The Granite City Rotary Club, itself organized in 1924, sponsored the Madison club, which in the early 1970s became the Madison-Venice Rotary.

On the official district

Rotary governor's report dated March 26, 1925, the early history of the club was told as follows:

"Madison was first included within the territorial limits of the Rotary Club of Granite City. Board of Directors of Granite City Club voted in November 1924 to relinquish jurisdiction over village of Madison and city of Venice. Action approved by Board of Directors of Rotary International.

"Survey made in Madison in February 1925. Henry Connoles named as chairman of organization committee. Tuesday, March 17, eighteen prospects from Madison attended Granite City Rotary Club meeting, all of them declaring their willingness to become charter members.

Friday, March 20, organization meeting held with results as aforesaid."

The document was signed by James L. McLaughlin, governor, District No. 41.

The official Rotary International extension survey form of February 1924 listed Madison as having six plants, three banks, five public service corporations, 130 retail merchants, five schools, nine churches, eight railroads, one newspaper, five attorneys, four physicians and two dentists.

The report listed Madison as having a population of 7,500, stating "1,000 are colored and 1,000 are alien."

The report went on to state "The present officers and directors are President Henry Connoles, Vice-President John S. Vaughn, Secretary Bernard S. Miller, Treasurer James C. Hinde, Sergeant at Arms Randall Champion and Directors Emanuel A. Friedman, Warren Champion and Maurice S. Darrow."

The meetings were originally held at 12:15 p.m. every Wednesday at 1435 Fourth St.

Over the years, the club meeting date and time have remained the same. Now, the M.V. Rotarians gather at the Madison Memorial Center at 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday, having moved to that location in 1971. First United Presbyterian Church of Madison.

John E. Lee III is the current president of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club.

Engineering open house for students

The first engineering open house ever, for area high school and prospective college students, will be held Friday, Feb. 22, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Sponsored by faculty and students in engineering and technology, the open house will include special projects, films, displays and computer games set up for visitors at the first floor and basement laboratories of the Science Building.

The microprocessor lab, with working examples of the unit, will also be open to the public.

SIUE students and faculty will be in the lab from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Feb. 22 to answer specific questions about the displays or to demonstrate their operation. Information about engineering and technical careers will be made available.

The local university offers undergraduate programs in electrical, civil and industrial engineering, plus a technical program in environmental studies. A new master's program is offered in an evening schedule in electrical and civil engineering.

Additional information is available in the engineering and technology department at 692-2500.

Man caught, is charged in GC burglary

Michael R. Murphy, 20, of 2607 Lincoln Ave., was taken to the Madison County Jail at 12:40 a.m. Tuesday in lieu of $2,500 cash bond on a charge of burglary.

Murphy allegedly broke into the home of Carl Schwierjohn, 2700 Lincoln Ave., about 1:10 p.m. Friday and was in the home when the victim arrived home.

Schwierjohn said he returned home, found the glass in the rear door broken and saw a young man in the bedroom who fled to the front door when he noticed the victim in the house.

They scuffled briefly at the front door and the young man ran out the door and into the mobile home park at 2301 Nameoki Road, it is alleged.

Officers questioned the residents of several mobile homes before allegedly locating Murphy in one of the homes.

He was taken into custody and appeared before a judge in Granite City at 4 p.m. Monday. The judge set his bond and signed mittimus papers to take him to the county jail.

Major railroad improvement is planned by Port

The Tri-City Regional Port District board Monday night authorized the authority's staff to proceed with an extensive rail improvement program.

Tasks given to the staff include arranging financing and proceeding with negotiations for land acquisition.

Also, preparing documents to notify the General Service Administration of intent to purchase an existing rail yard on the Granite City Army Installation property, and negotiating lease agreements and per-car agreements with Illinois Terminal Railroad.

The board also authorized relocation of electrical power and telephone lines to the Granite City Terminals Corp., I.S. Joseph and Granite City Steel facilities.

Relocating the overhead lines will provide increased power while eliminating several problems caused by the location of the lines, it was explained.

The resignation of Granite City Attorney Lance Callis from the port board was accepted with regrets.

Callis resigned so he can assist the city, as well as the port, in obtaining various portions of the Army installation that the GSA has declared surplus.

One bid to remove a used crane was received and was rejected by the board as being too high. The bid was for $14,000 to remove the huge crane, which no longer works.

The board had sought bids to sell the crane for scrap, but costs of dismantling and removing it may exceed its scrap value.

About 90 percent of the energy used by incandescent bulbs goes into heat, not light. "Long-life" bulbs are the most inefficient. When bulbs begin to glow dim, it's wise to replace them.

WANTED

Former Cub Scouts

Are you a "Wanted" man? The Cub Scouts of America are looking for adults who are former Cub Scouts to help celebrate the organization's 50th Anniversary in 1980.

If you were a Cub Scout during the 1920's, 1930's or 1940's, you can help a local Cub Scout Council find its roots during the 50th Anniversary. How? By sharing your knowledge of early Cub Scout Packs in the U.S., early uniforms, literature, names of people involved as Cub Scouts or leaders during the early days of Cub Scouting with a pack, local council or National Council.

REWARD You will share in one of the richest rewards we have to offer — helping young people discover the roots of their organization. And, by the way, you'll rediscover what it's like to be a kid again. Contact: Cub Scouting Division, Boy Scouts of America, c/o Robert L. Untch, National Director, P.O. Box 61392, Dallas Ft. Worth Airport, Dallas, Texas 75261. Phone: (214) 659-2000

IN FOCUS

Cable and pay TV take on the networks' lead

Cable subscription in the United States is rapidly approaching 20 percent, with more than one-quarter of these homes (6 percent) also connected to one of the various "pay" systems — Home Box Office, Showtime, etc. A.C. Nielsen recently released a study entitled "Pay Cable Report," based on a survey of those households that were identified as pay cable subscribers during February 1979. Analysis of the report indicates:

Pay cable scored well against competition offered by the networks. In prime-time viewing, pay cable enjoyed a 19 share. More specifically, "pay" came with one to two points of matching the average ratings of CBS and NBC during this period.

On some occasions, pay programming outscored all the competition. For example, on Friday night, Feb. 19, 1979, HBO ran the R-rated "Pretty Maids All in the Row" featuring Rock Hudson, achieving an average rating of 29 with a share of 45. ABC, which presented an edited version of the Warren Beatty film, "Shampoo," garnered the second highest, with a 9 rating and a 14 share.

On the average, television usage in pay cable households is higher than in total U.S. homes, particularly during prime time and late fringe.

A significant portion of pay TV's prime-time audience is obtained at the expense of the networks. It is interesting to note, moreover, that the top-rated ABC was affected less by audience siphoning than either CBS or NBC. Put another way, the effect of pay TV was to significantly increase the margin of advantage for ABC over the second- and third-ranked networks in pay cable households. (However, with only 6 percent penetration of the pay-and-cable combination, the actual effect on CBS or NBC's national rating amounted to less than one-third of a rating point.)

What this all means is that pay-TV's effect on the country's overall viewing habits is still minor, although it's expected to realize significant growth over the next three years. The threat of audience erosion could seriously challenge the networks' traditionally dominant role within the medium. Pay TV, together with other forces (e.g. video cassettes and discs), will complicate the advertisers' task and force a search for alternative ways of reaching consumer targets.

The challenge of pay TV will also force commercial TV programmers to try to minimize audience loss by improving their programming. When one considers the combined strength of both pay cable and commercial programming brought in from outside markets, it may be the weakness of network programming rather than the appeal of pay cable is the salient finding of the Nielsen report.

It should also be noted that the recent success of pay TV may be due largely to the networks' efforts to reduce the amount of "sex and violence" on the air. While the networks appear uncut, without commercial interruption. Rectifying this situation may prove difficult for the networks due to the censorship pressure still being brought from various sources, including advertisers.

Sea Adventures Pack 7 topic

Cubmaster Karl Markovich led the opening ceremony, which was performed by the Webelos Den Pack 7, and announced the theme for the January pack meeting was "Sea Adventures."

The cubs performed a "pirate" skit which they had written and the Webelos performed a skit about camping, but they learned on their first camping adventure with Boy Scout Troop 7 at the Lions Den campsite in Imperial, Mo. New Cub Kevin McKee was welcomed into the Webelos Den and was presented his Bobcat patch and Webelos denner cords.

Greg Hagen received his Bear patch and was advanced into the Webelos Den and presented with his colors and scarf.

Awards were as follows: Raymond Gunther, recruiter patch, citizenship, naturalist, and engineer. Karl Markovich Jr., scientist, citizenship, outdoorsman and was elected assistant Webelos denner; Charles Alexander, citizenship, scientist and outdoorsman.

Forest Burris, citizenship, scientist and also his colors and scarf; Steven Falbe, citizenship, scientist, outdoorsman; Frank Scaturro, scientist and outdoorsman; Joey Kusmierczak was elected cub denner. Robbie Buecker, Bobcat patch and was elected assistant cub denner; Patrick Boyer, Wolf patch and Bear book; Eric Markovich, Bear patch and one gold arrow point; Michael Yureck, one gold arrow point.

Regina Buecker volunteered to assist Dianna Markovich as den mother; Bob Buecker volunteered as assistant cubmaster and Ron McKee volunteered as assistant Webelos leader with Tony Boyer.

Closing ceremony was performed by the Webelos den, and refreshments were served by Jo Yureck, committee chairman and Regina Buecker.

Fellowship Center dedication service

On Sunday, Feb. 17, there will be a special 10 a.m. service for the dedication of a new addition at the Christian Fellowship Center, 1-55 and Rt. 162, Troy, Ill., just north of the 76 Truck Stop.

The Rev. Richard Dortch, superintendent of the Illinois Assemblies of God, will be the guest speaker. Sharon Haygood, of Denton, Texas, will be ministering in music for this service only. She is well known for recordings of gospel music, and also sang with the Gaithers on the "Hallelujah Chorus" album. There will be a luncheon immediately following the service, in the new Fellowship Hall. Pastor is John Polizzi.

Moth or butterfly?

Close examination of the feelers, or antennae, will usually distinguish between moths and butterflies. Butterfly antennae are always thin and smooth-looking with a swelling at the tip that is blunt except in one family, the skipper.

Moths may have smooth or feathery antennae, but in only one or two small groups is there a swelling, or club, near the end.
